

Serving Pilots and Flight Operations since 1951

FAA Medical Certification Services

Contact us today to enroll!
info@harveywatt.com
(800) 241-6103

Harvey Watt & Co. is uniquely qualified to advise pilots & leaders, reduce liability, help airmen avoid certification groundings, and get pilots cleared to return to work as quickly as possible. Since 1951, we have represented pilots, unions, and airline/corporate flight departments. Every year, 15% of pilots who have access to our group certification services call us for help with the FAA. Today, we represent over 65,000 pilots.

THREE LEVELS OF ASSISTANCE

one Education

The Aviation Medical Bulletin is provided electronically to all members of the airline or association and delivers brief summaries of the latest health research and studies.

two Preventive Medical

Don't hesitate to call or email. Our doctors can help pilots and their treating physicians evaluate treatment options approved by the FAA.

We know FAA requirements, when to take action, and how to avoid unnecessary grounding and certification delays.

three FAA Recertification

Confidential assistance from our doctors and nurses led by Dr. Fred Tilton, former Federal Flight Surgeon. We submit cases, expedite approval, interface with the FAA on pilot's behalf, handle appeals, and confidentially advocate for airmen.

What makes us different:

The Harvey Watt AeroMedical staff is available to help airmen or insured pilots do what it takes to rescue their career and regain their medical certificates. We are the only insurance provider that manages Pilot Disability Plans & AeroMedical Services for more than 65,000 U.S. pilots. Thanks to the large number of pilots we serve and the number of years we have been offering AeroMedical direction, no one knows better the importance a caring resource can be to disabled pilots. Many disqualifying conditions require ongoing testing at specific intervals. If pilots are not advised when they should have those tests done, they could be grounded for an extended period; a year or two for some conditions; after they have recovered, while undergoing the required test to show the FAA proper stability. Our help can be immeasurable in treatment and approved medications. When requested by pilots, our physicians often work with doctors of airmen to devise an effective treatment plan that would not interfere with the pilot's FAA medical certification down the road.

FAA Certification Experts represent and advocate for you during every step. Don't risk your career or company by not properly disclosing a medical issue.

Group services available for a flat monthly fee.

- As an FAA-recognized "Pilot Advocacy Organization," we receive expedited Certification reviews and notices.
- Work directly with the FAA Medical Certification Institute in Oklahoma City, Federal Flight Surgeon in Washington DC, and Regional Flight Surgeons.
- Proactive AeroMedical guidance reduces time away from the cockpit
- Responds quickly to FAA requests on behalf of pilots